Two separate content-research sections are provided, one for each website proposal.

Content Research 1: B3 Concept

1. Primary Source

B3 Concept (2026) B3 Concept. Available at: <https://www.b3concept.co.za/> (Accessed: 11 August 2026).

2. Organisation Research and Key Findings

- B3 Concept provides interior and graphic design services for commercial, retail and residential spaces.
- The organisation states that it was founded in 2015 as a small startup providing interior design services to residential clients.
- Services include space planning and interior staging, custom joinery and furniture design, project management, consulting, remodels and new construction, 3D rendering, needs analysis, corporate identity design, website design and property development.
- The organisation presents a three-stage design process: Concept, Design and Implementation.
- Brendan Schnetler is identified as Head Designer.
- The website identifies Cape Town, Johannesburg and Durban as service areas.
- Contact email: info@b3concept.co.za.
- The website identifies Constantia, Cape Town, South Africa.

3. Target Audience

The target audience includes residential clients, commercial and retail clients, businesses requiring corporate identity or website design, property development clients, and clients requiring project management, consulting or 3D visualisation. Content should help visitors understand the services, design approach, service areas and how to begin an enquiry.

4. Page-by-Page Content Plan

- index.html — Home: organisation introduction, main services, three-stage design process, service areas and calls to action.
- about.html — About Us: history, mission, approach, leadership and supporting organisational information.
- services.html — Services: detailed interior, space, project, creative and business service categories.
- enquiry.html — Project Enquiry: contact details, service, location, budget, date and project requirements.
- contact.html — Contact: general contact information, service areas and a general message form.

5. Text and Image Sourcing

Organisation facts are based on the official B3 Concept website. Information should be paraphrased and reorganised for the academic project. Any social-media claim should be reviewed and cited separately if used. Images must be original, public-domain or appropriately licensed, with source information recorded.

6. Image Assets

Content Research 2: The Cape Bakery

1. Primary Source

The Cape Bakery (2026) The Cape Bakery. Available at: <https://www.thecapebakery.co.za/> (Accessed: 11 August 2026).

2. Organisation Research and Key Findings

- The Cape Bakery is a Cape Town bakery that promotes freshly baked cakes, cupcakes and sweet treats.
- The website allows customers to shop online and choose delivery or in-store collection.
- Product categories include Bundt, Gateau, High, Low, Occasion, Bento, Devonshire, Buttercream, Compact, Square and Sliced cakes, plus cupcakes, tarts, sweet treats and sponges.
- The bakery presents its products for birthdays, braais, office treats, weekend treats and sharing.
- The website states that the bakery bakes and supplies exclusively within the Cape.
- Phone: +27 (0)21 010 7639.
- WhatsApp: +27 (0)78 799 4207.
- Email: admin@thecapebakery.co.za.
- Address: Unit 5, Radnor Industrial Park, 21 Radnor Street, Parow Industria, Cape Town, 7493.

3. Target Audience

The target audience includes customers looking for cakes and treats for birthdays, celebrations, office occasions, braais, gifting, weekend treats and everyday enjoyment. The website should make products easy to find and provide clear routes for product enquiries and general contact.

4. Product and Content Research

- Cake categories: Bundt, Gateau, High, Low, Occasion, Bento, Devonshire, Buttercream, Compact, Square and Sliced cakes.
- Other products: cupcakes, tarts, sweet treats and sponges.
- Ordering: online shopping, delivery and in-store collection should be explained clearly.
- Product information: record product names, categories and prices only after verification from the official ordering source.

5. Page-by-Page Content Plan

- index.html — Home: bakery introduction, product highlights, categories, calls to action and ordering/contact routes.
- about.html — About Us: bakery purpose, customer focus, service area and supporting business information.
- products.html — Products: organised cake and treat categories with verified product descriptions.
- enquiry.html — Product Enquiry: customer name, contact details, selected product, quantity, preferred date and special requirements.
- contact.html — Contact: phone, WhatsApp, email, address, delivery/collection information and general message form.

6. Text, Product and Image Sourcing

Business and product information should be taken from the official bakery website and official ordering pages. Descriptions should be paraphrased for the academic project. Prices should only be included when verified from the relevant official ordering page because prices can change. Product images should come from authorised organisational sources or appropriately licensed sources and must not be presented as official bakery photographs unless they actually originate from the organisation.

7. Official Ordering Source

The official ordering site is used as a secondary primary source for product names, categories and verified prices:
<https://order.thecapebakery.co.za/>

8. Reference

Sourcing and Academic Compliance Checklist

- Keep B3 Concept and The Cape Bakery as two clearly separated research sections.
- Use official organisation sources for organisation-specific facts.
- Paraphrase external text rather than copying it directly.
- Use in-text citations where required by the IIE referencing guide.
- Record image source, creator and licensing information.
- Use descriptive and consistent image filenames.
- Do not present illustrative images as official organisation portfolio or product photographs.
- Verify prices and product details before including them in the final website.
- Keep the final content aligned with the approved organisation and final sitemap.
